Why do you want to be an egg donor and if you had a message for your recipient what would it be?	I am a compassionate individual who takes great joy in helping others, and knowing that I have the potential to make someone else's dream of starting a family come true is incredibly fulfilling to me. The thought of providing hope and joy to individuals or couples who may be

	struggling with fertility issues make me content and I am eager to contribute in any way I can to alleviate their challenges. The act of becoming a donor aligns with my values of making a positive impact in the lives of others. It offers me the chance to give back to those in need. It would be an honour to be a donor. To the recipient, please give me a chance to assist in you in something you hold dear. You deserve it.
How do you best describe yourself?	I have a very giving personality. I love helping people in any way that I can, it brings me so much joy and makes me feel fulfilled. I am kind-hearted and I believe in treating everyone around me with respect. People who know me may describe me as too kind sometimes! As much as I am kind, I am resilient too. I faced so many challenges that could have completely changed my kind nature but because I am so grounded in who I am, my values in life never changed. I am the type of person who would acknowledge the reality of a situation but still find the best way to deal with it in a good and kind manner. I am very patient with not only situations I can and can't control but with myself as well. I believe in being patient in this life we live in. I am the type of person who would rather invest in my long-term plans of sustainability than my short-term if given a choice. I am very loving. I spread love everywhere I go and I try to make a difference, big or small in the things that I do. If my personality were a book, the main characters would be loving, understanding, and ambitious. Love for me is not just a feeling you share with yourself and other people, it's like an energy that runs through my veins and is present in everything and everyone I interact with. The love I believe I have is warm and compassionate. It naturally guides me to approach people and situations with kindness and empathy. This helps me ensure that every connection I establish has this foundation of care and consideration. My understanding trait offers me guidance and support through life and helps me have a solid grip on patience. It's that little but big voice that encourages me to listen effectively and put myself in someone else's shoes. I believe having an understanding nature in a world that is naturally filled with different opinions and beliefs taught me to navigate life

with empathy and grace. Then there's my ambition which is my driving force. It drives me to pursue my dreams with unwavering determination. I believe you can have many dreams in life and they can change with time but my ambition pushes me out of my comfort zone urging me not only to aim for success but to leave a positive mark in things that I do. These traits together shape my personality as a person, guiding my interactions, decisions, and aspirations in life. I like spreading joy whether its through witnessing acts of charity or experiencing compassion from others. I like acquiring more knowledge on different topics. It feels like a treasure hunt where I learn new things and expand my understanding of the world. I like open-mindedness as it fosters meaningful connections and brings about intellectual conversations. Nature is my sanctuary and I like protecting it every time that I can. I like food and discovering new places. Helping others brings a sense of fulfillment for me, and I actively seek out opportunities to lend a hand Effective communication is key to fostering relationships and solving problems in life and this is something I value immensely. I love my furry friends! On the other hand, ignorance from people is something that really frustrates me and hinders progress and understanding, two things I hold high value in. I despise the intentional act of littering and is disrespectful to the environment which we need to preserve and nurture. I dislike violence in any form and I actively work towards promoting peace whether it is in my community or at my very own home. Emotional immaturity is a trait I struggle to tolerate, as it often leads to unnecessary conflict and misunderstandings. I dislike untidiness, it disrupts my sense of peace and ruins the whole idea of a harmonious environment. I love diving into a good book, getting lost in different worlds and exploring new ideas. Meditating is another thing I find myself drawn to; it helps me clear my mind and find some inner peace in this busy world. And going for walks, especially in nature, is something I always look forward to. There's just something about being outdoors that rejuvenates me. I also have a passion for classical music. There's a timeless beauty and complexity to it that I find captivating. And delving into ancient art fascinates me; there's so much history and culture to uncover in every piece. As for what's important to me, well, I'm passionate about making a difference in the world. I dream of becoming a global policymaker one day. There are so many pressing issues like gender-based violence, inequality, poverty, and environmental degradation that I feel strongly about. I want to advocate for change and work towards creating a more just and sustainable future for everyone. If I were describing myself to a friend, I'd probably mention these things along with my love for learning and my desire to always keep growing and evolving as a person. Oh, and my fondness for spending quality time with loved ones, whether it's sharing a meal, having deep conversations, or simply enjoying each other's company. That's what matters to me in the end – meaningful connections and making a positive impact in whatever way I can. If I were to summarize all this in one sentence I would say that I am a compassionate and curious individual with a passion for making a positive impact through advocacy, learning, and meaningful connections.
