Other personal information:	South African nationality. Candidate has studied fashion. She is a creative person who's very intentional about how she lives and what she builds. She values structure, but I also cares deeply about expression and purpose. She describes herself as constantly evolving and trying to align her life with what actually matters. Non-smoker. Reason for Donating: I want to be an egg donor because I understand that something as natural as having a child is not accessible to everyone.

	The idea that I can help create that possibility for someone else is something I don't take lightly, it's meaningful, intentional, and deeply human. For me, it's not just about the biological aspect. It's about giving someone the chance to experience family, connection, and a future they may have been hoping for for a long time. I'm in a position where I can contribute to that in a real, tangible way, and I feel a responsibility to do so with care and respect. It's also important to me that this decision reflects who I am—thoughtful, disciplined, and aware of the impact my choices have on others. This isn't impulsive. It's something I've considered seriously, and I approach it with maturity and clarity.
Reproduction history:	No children and no donations as yet.
Views on religion and spirituality:	Christian: I see religion as a structured way of practicing faith—it gives guidance, discipline, and a sense of community. Spirituality, for me, is more personal; it's about my relationship with God, self-reflection, and staying aligned with my values. I don't see them as separate or in conflict. Practiced religion helps ground my spirituality, and spirituality keeps my faith authentic and intentional.
